

Building Pathways for Future Talent | MoU with University of Cyberjaya 9 September 2025

As part of Novugen's continuous efforts to connect academia and industry, we marked another milestone in our growing network of university partnerships with the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with University of Cyberjaya (UoC) on 9 September 2025.

This MoU is not our first engagement with UoC. Earlier this year, in May 2025, Novugen had the pleasure of welcoming UoC students for an industrial visit, where they were introduced to our operations and gained valuable insights into pharmaceutical practices. Building on that foundation, this partnership now formalizes our shared long-term commitment to creating sustained and impactful opportunities for students.

The collaboration with UoC underscores Novugen's continued commitment to ensuring that future pharmaceutical professionals are better equipped with real-world knowledge and experience. Through meaningful initiatives such as industry visits, internships, research collaborations, and knowledge-sharing sessions, students will not only learn about pharmaceutical practices in a live environment but also contribute fresh, innovative perspectives to the evolving healthcare landscape.

While this signing with UoC marks a new chapter, it also builds on the strong partnerships established with other leading universities, further strengthening the ecosystem for both education and industry. Looking ahead, Novugen will continue to expand these collaborations to inspire, train, and empower a future-ready workforce while laying the groundwork for Malaysia's pharmaceutical growth.
